

Productivity Superhero

*Limited Edition
eComic*

The Somewhat True
Adventures of Jason Raj

WARNING!

The following material may contain jokes. Laughter sensitive people should consult their physician before reading. And remember, please do not operate heavy machinery after reading this!

My name is Dr. Jason Raj, and as long as I can remember I wanted to be a Superhero. It was my quest. I can recall many hours spent trying to catch radioactive spiders, but it was no use. Either I couldn't find any or they were too tired to bite me. It seems I wasn't the first. All these efforts were in vain, since it never brought me any closer to becoming the Superhero I'd always wanted to be!

Several years ago, I was walking along, minding my own business, when I was attacked by a marshmallow with an attitude. Later as I was enjoying S'mores...I had a moment of clarity. I realized that I had been a Superhero all along. And my super powers were REAL! I was in fact...a Productivity Superhero!

Unlike many Superheroes who received their gifts in adulthood, I realized I was BORN a Superhero. As a baby, I possessed the unique ability to delegate to others to care for my every need. While barely a teenager, I overcame incredible obstacles in order to plan a faster route to McDonald's. When I was in college, I shattered all records for sleeping in class, mastering the Praying Mantis position in under 30 days. A fast learner, and destined to be great, it only took a mere 3 attempts to pass freshman Calculus as a senior before I was released from prison...I mean, college.

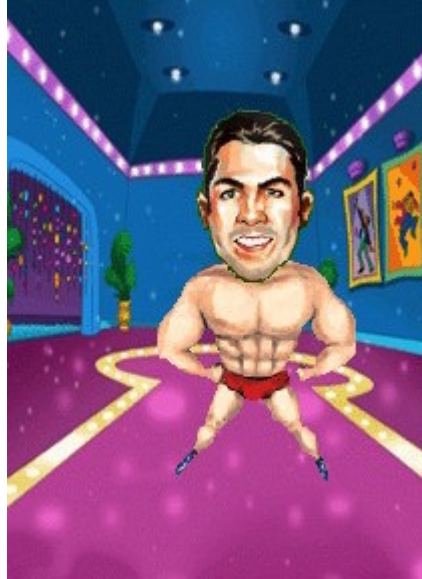

Once I realized that I was already a Superhero...I sought to make a name for myself! I first became a well-respected Superhero the day I rescued a famous celebrity from a stampede of hungry picnic ants. As is the case with being a celebrity, I have been regularly featured in the media. I've been written about in such well known magazines as People, TeeVee Guide, and had a full page spread in both Thyme and Knewsweek! Just recently, I posed for the cover of GeeQ magazine.

I have already started to draw a following wherever I go. I doubt it has anything to do with the tattoo on my back that says "Follow me". Due to overwhelming demand, my fans can now purchase authentic Xerox copies of my autograph on eBay. The minimum bid is only $100.

For those of you who think I'm all BRAIN and no BRAWN...let me enlighten you about some of my physical abilities. After all...I am a Superhero! I can hurl a crumpled piece of paper over great distances....my record is nearly 36 inches. Call me crazy, but I've even done insane mind over matter stunts...like the time I broke a piece of Styrofoam with my bare hands. On several occasions I've even snapped a toothpick in two... without gloves. You probably won't believe me when I tell you this, but I regularly open letters without a letter opener. Let's face it...I'm a tough guy! When I'm in the zone, I have been known to swallow melted ice cream without chewing!

The demands placed on a Superhero require that I stay in shape. In an effort to keep super fit, I train rigorously by running back and forth through my house in nothing but my boxer shorts and a smile, yelling "Who's the man?...I'm the man!...Who's the man?" I know what you're thinking. But trust me...shouting burns extra calories.

For those of you who think I'm shallow and self centered after all the bragging I've done...You're right. Just kidding! I felt compelled to make at least one joke in this very serious piece of literature. Surprisingly, despite my omnipotence and extreme superpowers, I am quite humble....even though I am a national treasure in 23 countries, 2 amusement parks and 1 fast food restaurant.

At the present, my personal security is at an all time high. Because not more than 2 weeks ago, I was ambushed by Leprechauns gone bad! Because I am a Superhero, my identity must be protected at all costs. The guy on the cover of this comic book is an out of work actor. No one can truly know what I look like, because the future of productivity is at stake! Even my own parents still believe the actor in the picture is me. In all seriousness, my life as Productivity Superhero is not without danger! Why just the other day, I put myself in harms way to rescue a penny that had rolled onto a busy street.

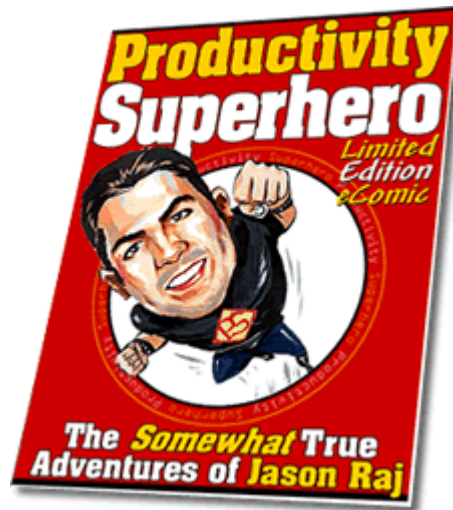

I can only imagine what you are thinking right now. You must think that I've escaped from an asylum. How in the world did you find out? Well, now that you know, could you hide me, because I'm on the run! If you believe all the stuff you just read is true then you should write me. If you don't believe all the stuff you just read then you should write me and I'll prove it to you! All joking aside, I don't have delusions of grandeur! You're not deluded if it's really true!....okay...somewhat true!

Thanks for reading my eComic. You may freely distribute this eComic to anyone you like.

Sincerely,

Dr. Jason Raj

If you enjoyed my eComic let me know. Please leave a comment at my website. To watch and download exclusive time management videos be sure to visit my website...

www.TimeManagementTV.com

TimeManagementTV.com